Narrative

The City of Evansville works with the local WIOA one-stop system to support residents, including those in low-income communities, to secure long-term employment. This local workforce board includes a representative from the local unions allowing for a partnership with the unions and local contractors to create pathways to careers in the building trades. Additionally, the one-stop system provides neighborhood navigators who go into the neighborhoods to assist residents with job readiness and connecting with employers. The City provides a large venue twice per year for job fairs with multiple employers and job services. Supportive services and tuition assistance are provided on a limited basis through.

The City facilitates Housing Organizations United Serving Evansville (HOUSE), a coalition of housing organizations working collaboratively to remedy Evansville's lack of affordable, habitable housing. HOUSE strategies include building new units, rehabbing existing units and advocating for residents. Many of the subrecipients of CDBG and HOME funds belong to HOUSE. Several members of HOUSE provide financial literacy coaching and other services to improve housing and economic mobility for residents.
